its last appearance yesterday morning, and the material is safely stored away, subject to orders of the owner, Mr. Cleveland of

They will arrive at Nashwille at 10:25 tomorrow, passing through and going by way of Louisville. Sullivan was much exclud when informed of a rumor of Kitrain's death, and every effort is being made to keep any dispatches being sent as to his movements, route, etc. The party is very uneasy, fearing arrest. They did not know whether there was any truth in the rumor about Kilrain or not, as at that time its faisity had not been ascertained. They seemed much at sea as to what course to pursue. Sullivan said he undoubtedly punished Kilrain terriby, and looked as though the rumor was no great surprise to him.

Judge Bain held that a sufficient case had been made out; that while most of the evidence is circumstantial, it seemed to him that evidence giving a strong presumption of guilt is all that is necessary to commit a prisoner for trial or remand him for extradition. He, therefore, committed Burke to jail to await extradition. The full court, he said, is now sitting, and the case could be brought before them immediately on a writ of habeas corpus.

Application will be made to the Department of Justice at Ottawa for extradition, but the prisoner will be given 15 days grace in which to appeal from Jadge Bain's decision.

CHICAGO, July 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The fight between the Grand Army of the Republic and the various railroad companies reached an acute phase this evening. This was the last day of the period named by the Grand Army men in which the railroads might gracefully sur-render and grant the usual rate of 1 cent mile to persons attending the great annual encampment, announced to take place this year at Milwaukee. No surrender was made by the railroads, and this attenuous the committee of G.A.R. Department Comthe committee of G.A.R. Department Commanders who have been agitating the subject held a meeting here, and proceeded with an attempt to carry out the threat that, in the event of the railroads proving obstinate, the encampment should be made, if possible, merely an assemblage of delegates instead of a huge popular gathering. The committee voted to send a circular letter to all Department Commanders throughout the country urging that the attendance on the encampment be limited, so far as practicable, in the manner described.

So far as practicable, in the manner described.

Preparations at Milwaukee for the entertainment of the great crowds expected at the encampment have been virtually suspended, owing to the dispute with the rall-roads, and today's action of the committee of commanders may, it is feared, render the stoppage permanent.

Leading members of the local Grand Army Encampment Council express a good deal of indignation at the action of the department commanders in issuing a boycotting circular, and say that all preparations will be stopped at once. A meeting will be held tomorrow night to definitely determine what to do. The city authorities will probably decline to make the necessary appropriations for camps and barracks, unless the control of the circular is rescinded.

MRS. JOHN TYLER. Death of the Widow of the Ex-Pres-

RICHMOND (Va.), July 10.—[By the Associated Press.] Mrs. John Tyler, widow of the ex-President, died at the Exchange Hotel this evening from a congestive chill. She had only been at the hotel slace Sus day evening, and was to have left on Tyler, president of William and Mary College, Virginia; Gardiner G. Tyler, who lives in Charles City county, Va.; Dr. Leeklan Tyler of Washington City and Mrs. William Ellis of Montgomery cannty.

Julia Gardiner Tyler, the second wife of John Tyler, tenth President of the United States, was born on Gardiner's Island, near East Hampton, N. Y.. in 1820. She was educated at Chegary Institute, New York city, and after a short time spent in travel, through Europe she came to Washington with her father in 1843. A few weeks after their arrival they accepted an invitation from President Tyler to attend a pleasure excursion down the river on the war steame? Princeton. The festivities on this occasion were sadly marred by the explosion of a gun on the vessel, causing loss of life. Among those killed was Miss Gardiner's father. His body was taken to the White House, and Miss Gardiner was thrown a great deal into the society of the President, owing to the peculiar circumstances attending her father's death. President Tyler's first wife had died shortly after he entered the White House, and he paid Miss Gardiner marked attention, which resulted in their marriage in New York city June 28, 1844. For the succeeding eight months of President Tyler's first wife had died shortly after he entered the White House with tact, grace and dignity. After the stife, and then her husband to the seclusion of their country place, "Sherwood Forest," on the banks of the James River, Virginia. A LONG AND INTERESTING SI SION YESTERDAY

The "Missing Link" Comes in for Full Discussion - Shall Women Be Excluded from the Saloons -Officer Roberts Under Charge -Social Evil-The Chief Aroused.

The Police Commissioners were slow bout meeting yesterday afternoon. At 2 o'clock only Chief Burns, Clerk Robinson and the newspaper reporters were present, who put in the time discussing the probable action of the board, and making speculations as to whether the guillotine was in working order. At the foot of the steps several applicants who said that they had been promised positions were patiently waiting. Mr. Knox was the first memper to show up, and seeing that none of his colleagues were on hand, exgestion that he adjourn the meeting, as he did last week, he replied that he would like to have one show at the board before he went away, saying that he expected to take a trip. Mr. Dexter was the next arrival, showing up in a brand new police uniform, minus the brass buttons. He was followed by Mr. Lindley, who brought his prerepulal good humor with him, and perennial good humor with him, and His Honor brought up the rear with a cheerful, self-satisfied air of a man who has dined well, and has the digestive powers to appreciate good living No time was lost in preliminaries, and as soon as the members were settled in their seats the meeting was called to order and the proceedings opened with the reading of the minutes, which were duly approved.

Mr. Knox corroborated Mr. Lindley's remarks, as did also Chief Burns, after which Mr. Dexter moved that the papers be returned to the Chief, and that Roberts be further investigated by Mr. Knox, in connection with the Chief which went over under the rules H. The Chief presented a communication in regard to the saloon licenses which had been vetoed on account of failure to file the necessary affidavits, setting forth that all had been served with notices, and that the parties had complied with the law, and asked that their licenses be given them. Mr. Dexter stated that several Councilmen had told him that the place was a re-spectable one, and Mayor Hazard said that the broad proposition presented to the boardwas whether they should grant a license to a place where women were employed. Mr. Knox sa d that, in view of all the facts in the case, he should vote to deny the license. Mr. Lindley rather favored granting the application. The statement was also made that the place was running without ton. The statement was also made that the place was running without a license, and Mayor Hazard said that he thought it should be closed up until a license was granted. Chief Burns said that Watkins was formerly one of the proprietors of the Missing Link, whereupon Mr. Knox said that he would vote against granting Watkins a license for any place in the city. It was also stated that there were two "box stalls," or back rooms in the Watkins saloon, when Mr. Lindley stated that almost every saloon in the city had rooms of this kind, and that if they were corrupting influences a general order should be issued against them. Mr. Knox replied that he was in favor of shutting up all saloons of this kind, and that if they were should be issued against them. THE SOCIAL EVIL.

A petition was read from J. W. Robnson and others, asking that immediate steps be taken for closing all houses ate steps be taken for closing all houses of ill-fame on Buena Vista and New High streets. A counter-petition was also presented from H. Marteen and others, property-owners on New High street, asking that New High street, from Bellevue avenue and Alpine street, be set apart for the exclusive use of houses of prostitution, and setting forth their reasons for their action in the matter. Another petition was also presented, calling attention to the number of "street-walkers" who was also presented, caring attention to the number of "street-walkers" who ply their vocation on the public thoroughtares at night, while they are distributed among the lodging-houses during the day, being a constant menace to the morality of the city, and asking that of his colleagues were on hand, excused himself, saying that he would have to go out, but would return in a few minutes. Another petition was received from Father Peter, calling attention to the house of ill-fame at the corner of Marchessault and New High streets, and stating that the place was so situated as to be objectionable to the people of his congregation, and that the peace and quiet of the neighborhood were frequently disturbed by the lewd and indecent conduct of the women in the house.

MR. KNOX ON HIS EAR.

mr. Knox on his ear.

The petitions gave rise to a general discussion of the social evil, in which Mr. Knox denounced the petition of the New High street property-owners as an insult to the city and pointed out several signatures of men who, he said, had been dead for years. Mayor Hazard rather favored the New High street idea. Mr. Lindley said that he thought that they were best where they were, to which objection was made that Alameda street was the thoroughfare on which strangers come into the city. Chief Burns said that he had made arrangements for the opening of an alleyway between Los Angeles and Alameda streets, on which the "cribs" would open, which, he thought would settle the matter.

Mr. Knox denounced the petition of the loss of the long-that time, and Mayor Hazard asked that the vote on Goodman's removal be reconsidered, as his case did not come within the strongers come they were to which objection was made debates in which the commissioners indulge, and the whole ground was again gone over. A roll-gall was into the city. whereas, this chamber has heretofore, without due reflection, adopted resolutions favoring a stoppage of work on the Government building in this city, looking to the enlargement of the structure and a possible change of its location; and, whereas, a further and fuller consideration of all the facts surrounding the case, and a more deliberate examination of the actual situation and its possibilities, leads us to modify the views heretofore expressed; therefore,

Resolved, that it is our deliberate judgment that the site selected by the Government should not be changed; that work upon the building should not be suspended, but should be continued to at least the roof line, and only suspended with a view to the erection of a three-story building; that we favor such a building and the addition thereto of a 50-foot wing on the seutherly side, in accordance with the suggestions of the superintendent of construction, heretofore made in writing to Representative Vandever; that for these purposes we urge upon Congress the increase of the appropriation to at least $350,000 in all.

Resolved, that our Representative in Congress be asked to forward these amended resolutions to the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department, with a letter again calling his attention to the facts regarding our growth, and strongly urging upon him the views of this chamber and our citizens, to the effect that the above estimates are the lowest possible that will meet the actual necessities of a city of 75,000 population, steadily growing, and with very large requirements in the way of a public building.

SOLVED.

A short time ago we published etition from property-owners on New High street, between Bellevue avenue and Alpine street, to the Council, asking that the blocks mentioned should be set aside for the use of houses of prostitution. In commenting thereupon, we showed the necessity for some move of this sort.

Yesterday another petition, on the of these people. Whatever may have been thought of the standing of the signers to the former petition, there is no question about the respectability or tanding of the men who have attached their names to this one. They are not property-owners on any particular street, but include some of the most prominent professional and business men in town and one city pastor. The petitioners complain that street walkers now swarm upon the streets at night, and spread themselves through the lodging-houses by day, invading portions of the city hitherto ... No. 453 free from this class, they having been driven from the quarters hitherto assigned them by the police. This question, which is generally referred to as the "social evil"-although it is only one of many social evils-is a which has persistently question troubled social reformers. The only sure lesson which a mass of experience has taught is the futility of attempt to entirely eradicate the system. Ostensibly driven away, it assumes other and more dangerous forms. Whatever we may decide to do, we can commit no greater folly than, ostrich-like, to bury our heads in the sand, and refuse to see the facts as they exist. We may not be prepared to go as far as many European nations, which license and control; certainly not as far as Japan which has a Government Department of Prostitution, but the case has to be met; something has to be done: it is certainly not conducive to public mor als to permit lewd women to locate themselves all over town, thus unnecessarily throwing temptation in the way of the young.

The bombastic resolution introduced by Mr. Knox against the respectable gentlemen who signed the petition, is therefore entirely uncalled for and out of place. Statesman Dexter seconded the resolution but backed out with his usual agility on the vote. We believe that it is in the interest of public morals that the suggestion of the petitioners should, if possible, be comlied with, and the women located where people who are not seeking them need not stumble over them. The suggestion of Chief Burns, to set apart an alley between Los Angeles and tion. Alameda streets for their use, seems to be a good one, and is worth investigating. one to handle, but it will not grow more savory if the Police Commission continue to shilly-shally over it for months. The question is not a very pleasant

THE DIRECTION OF THE CITY'S GROWTH.

It is no wonder that property-owners in the northern part of the city are getting anxious at the manner in which the business section is galloping away from them. Dividing the city into four equal parts, it would probably be safe to say that ninety per cent. of the value of improvements made in the city limits during the past five years have been made in the southwest the crop 1887-'8 cleared but $6000, while the last against the crop 1887-'8 cleared but $6000, while the last against the crop 1887-'8 cleared but $6000, while grow westward—toward the setting sun. This rule holds good in the case of most of the large cities of Europe.

Was had with Col. Markham in Washington, by the old Horticultural Commission, of which Col. J. R. Dobbins of San Gabriel and George S. Rice of Alof most of the large cities of Europe. of most of the large cities of Europe. The fact has received various explanations, one being that the prevailing direction of trade winds is from the west, which would naturally carry dust and impurities to the eastward, making that an undesirable quarter for residence. In Los Angeles, growth to the west has been impeded by a range of hills, which, until recently, were difficult of access, and which even now act The fact has received various explanadirection of trade winds is from the cult of access, and which even now act as a complete barrier for several blocks. This forced the business growth south of Third street. Many who admire a "house set upon a hill" have meantime erected beautiful dwellings on the western hills, where they catch the full force of the sea breezes.

One of the chief causes that started the southwestern growth is the fact that the section of the city bounded by Spring, Pico, Pearl and Third is the only portion of inside Los Angeles which has wide, regularly laid out streets, running at right angles to each other. Then, it also has a good elevation, while immediately east of Main there is quite a considerable descent, into what was once the river bed, and to the northwest and west, as before remarked, are the hills.

A certain amount of favoritism on the part of the Council has also done something to assist growth in this direction. Money begets money. The wealth which gradually concentrated in that section of the city obtained for its owners a big pull, and most of THE California State Board of Trade the money spent for municipal improvements has gone in that direction. that, owing to the great success that has resulted from the reception of southwesterly direction continue? To a certain extent, probably yes, although journey through the East, it has been not so fast as in the past. There are too many large gaps to be filled up, time longer. In order to do this the board asks for assistance from affili-four or five miles from the business ated boards, to the extent of furnish- center, when they can get desirable building sites within a mile. It does not look as if a growth toward the take the exhibit to the Grand north could be easily fostered. There Army Encampment at Milwaukee in are too many obstacles in the way, August. It has undoubtto Downey block, was the fashionable vertising California, and as Southern thoroughfare; then Spring, from Tem his has recently been sending ple to First, and now, of an evening there are three times as many people between First and Second, as on the block north of that, and from Second

A PROBLEM WHICH MUST BE to Fourth the street is quite crowded The location of the courthouse will tend to keep business from running fast southward. While there is not much prospect of a change in the tide toward the north, there is room for and will be plenty of growth to the west and east. The western hills will, of course, be devoted to residences, with stores gradualy climbing up their lower slopes where the grade is not too steep, and scattered as little business centers further off. same subject, was presented to the tion east of Main and north of Seventh, Police Commission, asking that some and further south along the river, will defined section be set apart for the use gradually be filled up with lumber yards, warehouses, factories and so forth. The ground is perfectly level and both railroads are handy. Along Central avenue south of Seventh, toward Vernon, a new residence sec tion is settling up, which some expect to rival Figueroa street. It is claimed to be thirty feet higher than that street is at Jefferson, and the soil is lighter.

No single thing does more to influ ence the direction of a city's growth than lines of rapid transportation, especially cable roads. This has been very clearly shown in San Francisco The splendid system of cable roads now approaching completion in this city will undoubtedly prove no exception to the rule, and we may expect soon to see a marked development in the growth of Boyle Heights, East Los Angeles, West Seventh street and Jefferson street east of Main. The Los Angeles of 1900 will probably not show as marked a difference from the Los Angeles of today as that of today does from the Los Angeles of 1880, but unless all signs prove untrue, this city will have grown so a decade from now that a stranger returning after an absence of a dozen years will have to ook around for a considerable time before he gets his bearings. Meantime, the Council should strive to be fair to all sections of the city in ordering improvements.

THE VEDOLIA.

Operations of the White Scale's Powerful Enemy.

SAN GABRIEL, July 8 .- [Correspond ence of THE TIMES.] By invitation of Col. J. R. Dobbins of San Gabriel your correspondent recently visited orange grove for the purpose of inspecting the work that is being accomplished among his trees by the reently-imported vedolia cardinals. The icerya purchasi or white scale was unknown in San Gabriel until about seven years ago. Very little attention was paid to it at the time, as next to nothing was known of its powers of destruction. No steps being taken to destruction. No steps being taken to interfere with its propagation, it soon commenced to increase and multiply at such a fearful rate that everybo became alarmed, and various plans were projected for its extermina-tion. These for the most part consisted of various kinds of consisted of various kinds of washes, in which thousands of dollars were invested, but not the least good effected. Indeed, it is a common opinion that the various nostrums applied to the trees in the vain attempt to clear them of the troublesome scale did more harm than the icorn parchasi itself. Our foremost orchardists were driven almost to despair, and well they might be. Three years ago there were 699 carloads of oranges shipped from the San Gabriel station of the Southern Pacific Railroad, which was half the crop of all Southern California. So the industry was a heavy one that was threatened with total destruction. The effect of the scale on the profits of an orchard may be judged from the case of Col. Dobbins. The season of 1886-7 his orange crop netted over $11,000; the of various kinds in which thousands have been made in the southwest quarter. At the present rate of progress towards the Agricultural Park, the Sixth-street Park will be the center of retail business in 1900.

This rapid growth in one direction is due to several causes. It is said that most large cities have a tendency to most large cities have a tendency to the present the corp 1887-'8 cleared but $6000, while the last season there was no crop at all, the purchasi having preëmpted the whole orchard, notwithstanding the hard fight made by the Colonel.

Rumors of a parasite being at work on the scale in Australia reached this valley about two years ago. Correspondence in regard to the parasite was had with Col. Markham in Wash-pointed to raise $5000 to defray the ex-penses of the entomologist. While the money was being raised the Govern-ment stepped in and sent Prof. Albert Koebele to visit Australia and discove what there was in the reported para-site. Through him and Prof. D. W. Coquilette of Los Angeles Col. Dobbins received two consignments of the parasite, one on the 22d of last February and the other on the 20th of March. They were immediately placed where they would do the most good, and from this beginning almost the parties wallow has been colonized the and from this beginning almost the entire valley has been colonized. It increases at a marvelous rate, and if everything goes well there won't be a purchasi left in the valley in a year from now, a consummation devoutly to be wished.

almost cleared of the white scale, Col. Dobbins has taken great interest in helping out his neighbors. He has given away to date over 9000 of the bugs, so that there is scarcely an infested orchard in the valley that is not well colonized with the vedolia cardinalis. Col. Dobbins has studied the life and habits of the parasite with great care since it has been in his orchard. He has observed that they mate immediately after coming out of the chrysalis, and then the female lays its eggs, which number from 150 to 250. The eggs hatch in six days, and for the next 14 days the larvæ put in their most destructive work on their prey. Twenty days after the laying of the larvæ hatch themselves to

The eggs hatch in six days, and for the next 14 days the larvæ put in their most destructive work on their prey. Twenty days after the laying of the egg the larvæ attach themselves to some object, generally the upper side of a leaf, and in nine days the perfect insect emerges with wings, ready, if necessary, to start in search of pastures new.

The orchardists of San Gabriel have now no doubt that a cheap and effective remedy has been discovered for the white scale, and they are accordingly jubilant. It is a big thing for Southern California in general, as there is little doubt that if no remedy had been discovered it would be a question of but a few years at most when this great industry would be destroyed throughout the length and breadth of our fair land.

SANTA MONICA. Perpetual Motion at Last in Prac

SANTA MONICA, July 10.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] J. S. Goldman of Los Angeles yesterday made a public test from the end of the big wharf here of a machine that promises to cause a revolution in the realms of labor. He has invented and patented a system by which the power of the waves can be made applicable to the driving of all kinds of machin ery, and judging by the working of his model there will be no hitches at all in the process. The plan of procedure is a very simple one. A gallows is erected holding at the top two large reels, around one of which is wound a ong cord. One end of the cord reache the water, where it is attached to a float, and the other is on the reverse side of the reel and carries a small weight. When, therefore, the waves lift up the float, the weight takes up the slack in the cord and the reel revolves. As the water falls, a brake catch prevents the reel from reversing and at the same time an endless chain which is revolved by the foat-reel moves. On the opposite side of the gallows is another endless chain around the other real and between the standard or the same time. same time an endless chain which is revolved by the float-reel moves. On the opposite side of the gallows is another endless chain around the other reel, and between the two chains is a large wheel which, as it revolves, gives the power required. The outcome of the whole thing is that as the waves rise, the reel revolves and as the waves fall the chains are turned, thus making a perpetual motion and keeping the big center wheel turning. The motive power being thus supplied, the question of applying it to dynamos, belts or every sorts of machinery is only of course a question of sharp engineering. As much horsepower as is wanted can be obtained, this being regulated by the size of the float, for the waters will, of course, litt any floating thing, no matter what its weight may be, as is illustrated when huge ironelads are at anchor. Mr. Goldman is very sanguine over the success of his project, as is also his partner, Hy Towner, of San Diego, who has bought a half-interest in the patent. Mr. Goldman will leave in a few days for Chicago, where he will have a 10-horse-power machine constructed and brought to this coast, where it will be put in operation, either here or at San Diego. By this it is expected to show the wondrous capabilities of the scheme, and to invite the civilized world to participate.

No Lack of Strong Anti-corporation and Anti-monopoly Clauses for the Proposed Constitutions

By Telegraph to The Times.

SIOUX FALLS (S. Dak.), July 10.—[By the Associated Press. At today's session of the Constitutional Convention the ques tion under consideration was the powers of the convention to change the constitution of 1885. It came up on a motion to refer the different articles of said document to appropriate committees.

President Edgerton argued that such reference implied a claim of the conven-tion to power to change any and every article, whereas Congress had limited the change to certain specific provisions. In opposition to this view De

Joly, Caldwell and others maintained that what was referred merely purported to be a part of the constitution of 1885, and the convention could officially know the provisions of said do as a body.

The matter will come up again tomorrow, and is regarded as specially important, as certain changes might jeopardize the President's proclamation of admission, and cause it to be deferred. Thus the discussion as to the scope of the convention's worh will be very important.

Much concern is felt regarding the action of the Judicial Apportionment Committee. Almost every county has an aspirant for a judgeship, and there will be a strong attempt to make at least ten or a dozen circuits.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Macy Street-Grading, Etc Los Angeles, July 9.—[To the Editor of The Times.] Though it is not likely that an injunction will be served to stop the grading of Macy street between the covered bridge and the one across the little creek a short distance east of it, yet it does seem that a very how often and at what expense that dirt has been taken down from the hill directly avove it and hauled, too, from other places, to fill at the east end of the bridge, only to be washed into the river by the first heavy rains that fell upon it, and the dirt and labor lost. The street is a public thoroughfare, and probably will always have a great deal of travel upon it. Then, why not cut the hill down—a thing that should have been done years ago —so as to make a safe, easy and commodious roadway for the public? And instead of throwing the dirt where it will be washed away, have it hauled ought the one we are speaking of. It is stated that the covered bridge is to be raised at its east end, so as to lessen the cutting down of the hill, but that is another erroneous and impractical idea; the bridge is constructed on a level base by two trusses, each being 150 feet in length, and each in their bearing capacity being entirely independent of the other, and by raising one end to an oblique line from its level base will certainly effect the equipose on the different parts of its structure to support the weight it is intended to bear, as it now stands. And then it could not be raised without more or less damage to the joints of its timbers, say nothing of the cost of doing the work. Therefore the best plan that can be carried out is to cut the hill down to a safe and easy grade, make good stone gutters on both sides of the street to carry the storm water into the river without washing the roadbed, remove the old rotten wood approach at the west end and bank it up with hill dirt and let the bridge remain as it is, it is plenty high, and

A correspondent of THE TIMES criticises the Board of Education of that city for discriminating so largely in favor of female appointees to the schools. We do not think his points well made. Female teachers have established their reputation for management of pupils and as instructors, to an unquestionable degree, and it is too late in the day to claim otherwise. The authorized version was made public in 1611, or 277 years ago. It was undertaken at command of King James, because objections were made by the Puritans to the "Bishop's Bible." It comes, therefore, with only the authority for its own merits, and whether it shall be the text of future Bible publishers depends upon the verdict of the public estimates. It was particularly expected and desired that only such changes would be made as should transpose absolute terms into modern substitutes. In most places it may be said this has been quite well accomplished, and yet from the suggestion of the American versions there are yet some changes which every American would prefer to see in the text, but for the sake of unity, inasmuch as the appendex embodying these proposed changes is conveniently at hand, it was thought best not have differing editions on opposite sides of the Atlantic.

"A most conspicuous instance offscherence to a rigid uniformity is in the thirteenth chapter of I. Corinhians. Because the word rendered charity here in King Jamee's had been rendered elsewhere by the term love, the hard in the social of the change is lost sight of, and no other word as an equivalent for 'charity' can exactly express the meaning we want to give in this place. Every Bible reader must feel the shock produced by this exacting change of term.

New Yorks, July 10.—The stock market today reflected the growing confidence that the presidents in session at Chicago will be able to cope with all difficulties which may come up before them for adjustment, and that harmony in the Northwest is only a matter of time. The market was quite atter of time. The market was quite strong throughout. Runfors that the Burlington and Northern would be purchased by a syndicate with the view of getting it t of the way as a rate disturber had a stimulating effect upon speculation. Bur-lington, Atchison and St. Paul led the advance. Sugar trust also became quite a feature, and felt the stimulus of the recent decision, moving up 2% per cent. Alton, however, began to feel the effect of its policy, and sold at a loss of 9 per cent. Heavy realizing in the afternoon caused the gains on most of the list.

The British in Georgia-The Action at Black Rock - Gen. Pegram-Notable Events-Jack Cade-The Burr-Hamilton Duel.

When the British evacuated Savannah, on July 11, 1782, they carried off over 5000 negroes for sale as slaves in the West Indies. The Tories employed the Creek Indians as allies, and even Wayne's camp had been assailed on June 23d, when the redskins were repulsed with heavy loss. The State was then so impoverished by these devastations that there was hardly any corn for seed.

THE ACTION AT BLACK ROCK Before dawn on July 11, 1813, 400 English under Col. Bishopp, a brave and accomplished officer, landed un-perceived near Black Rock, now Bufand accomplished officer, landed unperceived near Black Rock, now Buffalo, to attack and destroy the American naval stores. A block house, called Fort Tompkins, was held by 12 artillerymen and 200 militia under Maj. Adams, with two or three pieces of artillery. Gen. Peter B. Porter, with 100 infantry and some Indians, lay at Buffalo. Adams's militia fied at the approach of danger toward Buffalo, leaving their uninjured guns to the enemy. The British fired the block house and naval stores, and then the officers went to Gen. Porter's house to have breakfast. Porter had, however, escaped to Buffalo, and while on his way thither, met a company of 100 regulars marching to Black Rock. Ordering them to halt, Porter rallied more than half of Adams's militia, and with this force and 40 Indians, at 8 o'clock suddenly attacked the enemy from three directions. The Indians rushed forward with a wild whoop, adding greatly te the confusion, and the British quickly lost nine killed and 18 prisoners. The American attack was so overpowering that the British were driven to their boats, the brave Col. Bishopp being killed in the struggle.

GEN. PEGRAM,
with a considerable Confederate force.

GEN. PEGRAM, with a considerable Confederate force with a considerable Confederate force, in July, 1861, was occupying Rich Mountain Gap in the Laurel Hill Range, four miles from Beverly, on the Staunton road to Virginia. McClellan sent Col. (afterward Gen.) W. S. Rosecrans with four regiments and a troop of cavalry to make a long detour through the mountains and attack Pegram. The movement was executed successfully, and at noon on July 11th Rosecrans was on the summit of a ridge of Rich Mountain high above Pegram's position. But Rosecrans's movement had been anticipated, and when he struck the Staunton road he was greeted with a storm of musket and cannon shot, bullets, grape, cannister and shells. Pegram had posted 900 men with two cannon in Rosecrans's rear, but the latter sending forward his skirmishers, kept two regiments in reserve, while the main body of the remainder lay concealed in battle order in the grass. When the Confederates charged, the Federals rose and delivered their fire, following it with a bayonet charge, before which the Confederates fied in disorder, losing 400 men. Rosecrans's loss was 60.

JACK CADE.

Shakespeare has preserved the memory of Jack Cade, a rebel in the reign of Henry VI., who was born in Ireland, and in 1450, under the assumed name of Mortimer, led a large army of Kentish insurgents toward London and defeated the royalist forces. The gates of the capital were then opened to him, and he remained there for a few days, during which time he caused Lord Say, an obnoxious minister, to be put to death. Liberal promises of pardon having induced the followers of Cade to disperse, he fled to Lewes, where he was killed July 11, 1450.

THE BURR-HAMILTON DUEL. JACK CADE.

THE BURR-HAMILTON DUEL

The fatal duel between Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton occurred on the 11th of July, 1804. Hamilton's father was a Scotchman and his mother a member of a Hugenot family banished from France. He was born in 1757, on the Island of Nevis, and whilst a youth serving as a clerk in a merchant's office, a furious hurricane arose, of which Hamilton wrote an account that was published in a West Indian newspaper. The narrative was so well written that the writer was deemed born for something better than mercantile drudgery, and he was sent to New York to prosecute his education. The dispute between Great Britain and the colonies had then become very warm, and Hamilton soon distinguished himself by eloquent speeches in advocacy of resistance. The young West Indian was Washington's aid-de-camp, and upon the formation of the Federal Government achieved lasting fame as the author of the financial nolicy of the new reand Alexander Hamilton occurred on formation of the Federal Government achieved lasting fame as the author of the financial policy of the new republic. Hamilton's opposition to the Federalist support of Aaron Burr for Governor of New York, which the latter learned through spies, led to a challenge, which Hamilton, in obedience to popular prejudice on the subject of duelling, felt obliged to accept.
